Part 1: Plot and Story

Character – Who does the plot center around?

Goal – What do they want to obtain or achieve?

Motivation – Why do they want this?

Conflicts – What are some situations they could face?

Emotional Change – How will these situations affect and change them?

Part 2: Setting

Where will your story take place (city, state, country, planet, galaxy, etc)

When will your story take place (year, decade, season, during whose reign, etc)

Replicate this part of the form as often as you need to cover the settings you come up with

What physical structure will your characters move through?

What time of day and/or season will they move through this structure?

What is this structure's floor plan, appearance, and notable contents?
Describe the floor plan by "moving" from room to room

image(s)	floor plan
	appearance
	contents

Part 3: Character
copy as needed for all characters who will have point of view picture(s):

Name:
Sex (gender, orientation, etc):
Age, physical build:
Cultural, intellectual education:
Socioeconomic status, job and/or income source(s):
Family structure (significant other(s), relatives, etc):

Skills and traits: consider traits that show character's attitude(s) toward the things described above

POSITIVE	NEUTRAL	NEGATIVE

Community Relationships: names only, you'll describe some of these characters in other sheets

Friends/associates:
Enemies/competitors:
Teachers/mentors:

Part 4: Audience/Genre Tropes

My story's main genre is: subgenre(s):

Tropes of my genre popular with readers:

How I can make the trope original:

Tropes that I don't like:

How I can "flip" or "twist" them: